STATE CONVENTION - LATIN TEAMS

Every year, Latin students from around the state gather at the Wisconsin State Capital in Madison, WI to participate in various classical events and competitions, as well as to elect the new officers onto the state board. Here are the students from a few of the teams:

ACTIVITIES AT STATE CONVENTION

There are tons of activities at convention from roll call, spirit cheering, Certamen, as well as the officer speeches, coin wars, elections, and of course, test taking. Every year, all the students have a blast!

Left: Hailey King smiles as she holds up posters for spirit.

Top: Ex. WJCL treasurer and now WJCL president Michael Kearney shaved the letters "JCL" on the back of his head. The things we do for latin!

Left: Old and new faces appear at convention each year. Both Pranav Adavi and Shiva Suri are happy to be at convention.

CONVENTION ARTS & CRAFTS

State Convention is full of different Classics-related competitions. From costumes to Latin-themed art pieces, the different entries are truly spectacular in supporting the Classical spirit!

Different students dress up as mythological figures for the costume contest. Top: Leah Wang. Bottom: Clare McCoy

Drawing: A beautiful drawing of Charybdis and Scylla from Madison West High School.

LATIN CLUB EVENTS

Throughout the year, students from each school participate in many different Latin-themed events. Each school devises its own unique ways to celebrate and support the Classical spirit!

Right. Madison West's Homecoming theme is displayed by different students dressing up as gladiators and having their Latin teacher pulled in a chariot. How cool is that?!

UW CLASSICS DEPARTMENT OPEN CAMPUS

On Thursday March 19th, 2015, Madison West High School Latin students went to the UW Classics Department Open Campus where they sat in on lectures on a number of topics ranging from Ancient Philosophy to Greek and Latin Derivatives in Medical Terminology. The students really enjoyed the trip and had a blast!

ROME'S BIRTHDAY AND NLE SCORES

Rainy April is the month not only of Rome's birthday, but also of the arrival of National Latin Exam results. Many students placed well this year!

JULY SERVICE PROJECT

The first service project of the year took place on July 13th at the Blackhawk Food Pantry Garden in Madison, WI. Volunteers helped grow different kinds of produce that will eventually be donated to local food pantries. While the activity was cut short by a tornado warning, everybody still had a good time. Currently, the project is an ongoing event that will continue throughout the year.

Creatio Ex Nihilo

READY FOR NATIONALS!

As you can see, all of the WJCL Latin students have been working hard throughout the year while still having loads of fun. Now, we are ready to head to Nationals and see all that hard work pay off by meeting up with friends, engaging in Ludi and/or Certamen, and placing well on tests!

Jason Tan and Ram Gollapudy stroll through the Emory University campus on their way to testing at Nationals 2014.

WJCL members work the bazaar trying to sell off any last items, including the hallmark red Ludi Jerseys.

Steven Chen's passion for railroad photography even led him to a pair of train tracks (and 20+ trains) on Emory University's campus!
